investigation to date as to themselves and their own acts, and upon information and belief as to all other matters:

NATURE OF THE CASE

1. Plaintiffs bring this adversary proceeding pursuant to Sections 105, 544, 548, and 550 of Title 11 of the United States Code, 11 U.S.C. §§ 101 et seq. (the “Bankruptcy Code”), and Sections 1304 and 1305 of Title 6 of the Delaware Code, Del. Code Ann. tit. 6, §§ 1304(a)(1)-(2) and 1305, to avoid and recover from the Defendant, or from any other person or entity for whose benefit the transfers were made, all transfers of property of Plaintiffs to the Defendant, prior to commencement of the above-captioned bankruptcy cases (collectively, the “Chapter 11 Cases” and each a “Chapter 11 Case”), by the above-captioned debtors and debtors-in-possession (collectively, the “Debtors” and each a “Debtor”).

2. On November 11 and November 14, 2022 (as applicable, the “Petition Date”), the Debtors filed with the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the “Court”) voluntary petitions for relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. No trustee has been appointed for Plaintiffs or any other Debtor in the Chapter 11 Cases, and the Debtors continue to operate their businesses and manage their properties as debtors-in-possession pursuant to Sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code. Joint administration of the Chapter 11 Cases was authorized by the Court by an order entered on November 22, 2022 [D.I. 128]. Accordingly, Plaintiffs have the authority to file this Complaint to commence, and thereafter to prosecute, this adversary proceeding.

3. Plaintiffs have determined, based on their analysis and investigation to date, that the following transfers to the Defendant are avoidable under the Bankruptcy Code and Title 6 of the Delaware Code:

Dates	Amount of Transfer	Transferor
Sept. 8, 2022	$2,550,000.00	North Dimension
Oct. 3, 2022	$650,000.00	North Dimension

4. During the course of this adversary proceeding, Plaintiffs may learn (through formal discovery or otherwise) of additional transfers made to or obligations incurred by Plaintiffs to Defendant that are avoidable under the Bankruptcy Code. Plaintiffs intend to avoid and recover all such transfers made to or obligations incurred by Plaintiffs to or for the benefit of Defendant or any other transferee and accordingly reserve the right to amend this Complaint. In particular, and without intending to create any limitation, Plaintiffs reserve the right to amend this Complaint to include: (i) further information regarding relevant transfers or obligations; (ii) information regarding additional transfers made or obligations incurred; (iii) additional plaintiffs; (iv) modifications of and/or revisions to the Defendant's name; (v) additional defendants; and (vi) additional causes of action that may become known at any time during this adversary proceeding, through formal discovery or otherwise.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

I. The FTX Insiders' Fraudulent Scheme.

24. Prior to the Petition Date, the FTX Group operated cryptocurrency exchanges and trading businesses. As explained in the First Day Declarations (defined below), the FTX Group faced a severe liquidity crisis that necessitated the filing of these Chapter 11 Cases on an emergency basis on November 11 and 14, 2022. Additional factual background relating to the FTX Group's businesses and the commencement of these Chapter 11 Cases is set forth in the Declaration of John J. Ray III in Support of Chapter 11 Petitions and First Day Pleadings [D.I. 24], the Declaration of Edgar W. Mosley II in Support of Chapter 11 Petitions and First Day Pleadings [D.I. 57], the Supplemental Declaration of John J. Ray III in Support of First Day Pleadings [D.I. 92], and the Supplemental Declaration of Edgar W. Mosley II in Support of First Day Pleadings [D.I. 93] (collectively, the "First Day Declarations"); the First Interim Report of John J. Ray III to the Independent Directors on Control Failures at the FTX Exchanges [D.I. 1242-1]; and the Second Interim Report of John J. Ray III to the Independent Directors: The Commingling and Misuse of Customer Deposits at FTX.com [D.I. 1704-1] (the "Second Interim Report").

25. The FTX Insiders, among others, took advantage of the FTX Group's lack of controls and recordkeeping to perpetrate a massive fraud—lavishly spending the FTX Group's assets on, among other things, private homes and jets, political and “charitable” contributions, and various investments.

26. All of the FTX Insiders, except for Bankman-Fried, have pleaded guilty to crimes perpetrated through the very practices that facilitated the transactions described herein. On December 19, 2022, Wang and Ellison pleaded guilty to multiple felonies, including wire fraud, conspiracy to commit wire fraud, conspiracy to commit commodities fraud, conspiracy to commit securities fraud, and conspiracy to commit money laundering. See Min. Entry, Dec. 19, 2022, United States v. Bankman-Fried, No. 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. 2022). On September 24, Ellison was sentenced to two years in prison. Min. Entry, Sept. 24, 2024, United States v. Ellison, No. 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. 2022). Singh pleaded guilty to the same felonies and an additional charge of conspiracy to violate campaign finance laws, on February 28, 2023. See Min. Entry, Feb. 28, 2023, United States v. Bankman Fried, No. 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. 2022). On November 2, 2023 a jury found Bankman-Fried guilty of multiple felonies for defrauding customers, lenders, and investors, including conspiracies to commit wire fraud, wire fraud, conspiracy to commit commodities fraud, conspiracy to commit securities fraud, and conspiracy to commit money laundering. On March 28, 2024, Bankman-Fried was sentenced to 25 years in prison.

27. In connection with his plea, Wang admitted that in 2019 he made “certain changes to [the FTX.com] code” to give Alameda and its affiliates “special privileges on the FTX platform,” including to allow Alameda unfettered use of assets on the FTX.com exchange, even while Alameda maintained negative balances in its own holdings of fiat (i.e., government-issued) currencies and cryptocurrencies. Plea Tr. at 24:6–10, United States v. Wang, No. 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. 2022), ECF No. 21. Using these “special privileges,” the FTX Insiders frequently caused FTX Group entities, including Plaintiffs, to misappropriate funds from the FTX exchanges for their own benefit, including to make speculative investments for which they overpaid, and political and charitable donations.

28. Before his conviction, Bankman-Fried repeatedly, and publicly, claimed that Alameda LLC operated as “a wholly separate entity” from FTX.com. Annie Massa et al., Sam

Bankman-Fried and Alameda CEO Caroline Ellison Spoke About Red Flags 3 Months Before It Collapsed. Here's What They Said – and How They Lied, Fortune (Nov. 18, 2022), <https://fortune.com/2022/11/18/sam-bankman-fried-alameda-ceo-caroline-ellison-spoke-red-flags-ftx-3-months-before-it-collapsed-what-said-how-lied/>. Ellison was quoted as saying that “[w]e keep [FTX and Alameda] quite separate in terms of day to day operations.” Id. In reality, Alameda LLC routinely looted “several billion dollars” from FTX.com using its “special privileges,” thereby defrauding FTX.com’s creditors. Plea Tr. at 28:23–29:2, United States v. Singh, No. 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. 2022), ECF No. 102 (“Singh Plea Tr.”); Plea Tr. at 24:6–10, United States v. Wang, No. 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. 2022), ECF No. 21.

29. The FTX Insiders were aware at all relevant times of the “special privileges on the FTX platform” and that Alameda LLC was “borrowing” (i.e., looting) billions of dollars from FTX.com in order to, among other things, finance sham “loans” from Alameda to the FTX Insiders. Ellison admitted to being aware of this arrangement from 2019 through 2022, which she described as “permitt[ing] Alameda access to an unlimited line of credit without being required to post collateral, . . . pay interest . . . or being subject to margin calls or FTX.com’s liquidation protocols.” Plea Tr. at 27:11–15, United States v. Ellison, 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. 2022), ECF No. 19.

30. Testimony from the FTX Insiders during Bankman-Fried’s criminal trial further clarified the fraudulent relationship between Alameda and FTX, and the scheme pursuant to which the FTX Insiders misappropriated customer funds. For example, Singh testified he and Wang implemented the “allow negative feature” which granted Alameda the ability to “go negative without any balance” such that Alameda was not “bounded by its collateral limit.” See, e.g., Trial Tr. at 1362:25–1363:10, United States v. Bankman-Fried, No. 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 16, 2023) (“Bankman-Fried Trial Tr.”). When Singh confronted Bankman-Fried about the growing hole caused by Alameda's exchange privileges, Bankman-Fried responded that the "main plan remains, making FTX successful and growing it." Id. at 1411:3–1412:10. FTX.com's former General Counsel also testified that Bankman-Fried told Singh that the hole "is what it is and there is nothing we can do about it. The only thing we can do is grow the company and fill the hole." Id. at 1964:12–1965:5.

31. Ellison testified that Bankman-Fried's strategy was for Alameda to borrow "as much money as [it] could get from whatever sources [it] could find at whatever terms [it] could get" and to "make a lot of investments, potentially in the billions of dollars of venture investments in . . . relatively early-stage companies." Id. at 693:4–17. Ellison also explained that she "learned that FTX had loaned money that it had raised from investors totaling $1.6 billion to Alameda," which "had been concealed from FTX's auditors." Id. at 937:12–14. Ellison testified that when an Alameda lender called an open term loan, Bankman-Fried directed her to "prepare alternative ways of presenting the information" and "come up with ways to conceal things in [their] balance sheet that [they] both thought looked bad." Id. at 786:13–25.

32. In the days leading up to the Petition Date, Ellison messaged Bankman-Fried that she "had an increasing dread of this day that was weighing on me for a long time, and now that it's actually happening it just feels great to get it over with[,] one way or another." See Superseding Indictment ¶ 53, United States v. Bankman-Fried, No. 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. 2022), ECF No. 115.

II. The FTX Insiders Defrauded Customers and Other Creditors of the FTX Group To Make "Political Contributions."

33. Bankman-Fried was aware at all relevant times of Alameda's special privileges on FTX's platform that had been encoded by Wang, and was aware that Alameda was borrowing billions of dollars from FTX.com in order to, inter alia, finance "loans" from Alameda to Bankman-Fried himself, or to make putative “donations” to causes favored by him—including to entities he controlled.

34. At the direction of Bankman-Fried, Ellison, Wang, and Singh, the FTX Group papered “loans” to FTX executives, including hundreds of millions of dollars earmarked for political contributions and speculative investments in other companies. Bankman-Fried directed Singh, Salame, as well as other FTX Insiders and FTX executives to make political donations using Debtors’ assets as straw donors to conceal the identity of the true donor, Bankman-Fried. The FECA, 52 U.S.C. § 30101 et seq., prohibits people from making conduit contributions, i.e., those “in the name of another person” or “knowingly permit[ing] [their] name to be used to effect such a contribution,” id. § 30122, and prohibits corporations from making contributions, id. § 30118.

35. For example, by design of Bankman-Fried, Salame primarily made contributions to Republican candidates or Republican-affiliated PACs or super-PACs. Records identified by the Debtors show that Salame served as a conduit or “straw donor” for Bankman-Fried’s donations to Republican Party candidates, which Bankman-Fried and Salame sought to obscure, and that Salame was rewarded for his participation in this scheme. Through this scheme, Salame made millions of dollars in political contributions in his own name to Republican Party candidates and causes as a straw donor to conceal the identity of the true donor, Bankman-Fried, in violation of campaign finance laws. See, e.g., Bankman-Fried Trial Tr. at 1422:19–1423:3. Salame pled guilty to conspiracy to violate campaign finance laws. Salame stated at his plea hearing that the “tens of millions of dollars in campaign contributions” he made in his name were “funded by transfers from the bank accounts of an Alameda subsidiary.” Plea Tr. at 21:19–23, United States v. Salame, No. 22-cr-00673 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 7, 2023), ECF No. 283. He acknowledged that “[w]hile at the time these funds were categorized in both [his] and Alameda's ledgers as loans," he "understood then that the loans would eventually be forgiven and [he] never intended to repay them." Id. at 21:23–25, 22:1–5.

36. Singh also pleaded guilty to conspiracy to violate campaign finance laws. Singh testified at Bankman-Fried's criminal trial that he made "political donations" "in my name, using my bank account" using "funds deposited straight from Alameda." See Bankman-Fried Trial Tr. at 1420:19–25. Singh explained that "[f]unds would start out with Alameda at some bank account. They would get transferred into -- wired to my Prime Trust account, which is another bank account, and then Ryan [Salame] would request a wire withdrawal from my bank account to the campaign as a destination, and I would click OK in my email." Id. at 1430:3–7. Singh also testified that the "wires from Alameda" into his bank account used for the donations were coming from "[c]ustomers." See id. at 1433:15–25 ("There was an enormous hole, I knew, deficit in funds at FTX for customers, and Alameda sort of also had that hole. It was theirs to fill. Alameda sending me money to spend, as opposed to keeping money for customers, say, necessarily deepens that hole and is drawing on funds that would have otherwise gone to customers.").

37. The funds used to make these political contributions were often transferred from the same Alameda and North Dimension bank accounts to which FTX customers sent funds to be credited to their accounts on the FTX exchanges. See Second Interim Report at 24–25. The FTX Insiders then used these funds misappropriated from Alameda to make exorbitant political donations, ingratiating themselves and their affiliated companies with politicians and lobbyists, thereby furthering both their efforts to grow the FTX Group with minimal political oversight, and the FTX Group's image as a healthy, trustworthy, and successful group of companies. Indeed, at his criminal trial, Bankman-Fried admitted that "it would be good for FTX public relations to spend millions of dollars in donations each year.” See Bankman-Fried Trial Tr. at 2642:21–2643:4. Singh, who pled guilty to violations of campaign finance laws by agreeing to make donations funded by Alameda, stated that he “did not select the candidates and the political action committees who received the donations” and that “the donations were in part for the benefit of Sam Bankman-Fried and FTX and their ability to be politically influential.” Singh Plea Tr. at 33:7–14.

III. Transfers of Debtors’ Funds to Defendant.

38. Defendant was incorporated in 2022 as a 501(c)(4) social welfare organization to “advocate for legislative and regulatory policies that advance economic prosperity in America.” AMERICAN PROSPERITY ALLIANCE, <https://prosperityalliance.org/our-mission> (last visited Oct. 28, 2024).

39. On or about September 7, 2022, Plaintiff North Dimension transferred $3,000,000 from a Silvergate Bank account containing commingled customer assets held in its name to a Signature Bank account held in the name of Salame. On or about September 8, 2022, Salame then transferred $2,550,000 of Plaintiffs’ assets from a Signature Bank account held in his name to Defendant (the “September 8 Transfer”).

40. On or about October 3, 2022, Plaintiff North Dimension transferred $1,000,000 from a Silvergate Bank account containing commingled customer assets held in its name to a Signature Bank account held in the name of Salame. On or about the same day, Salame then transferred $650,000 of Plaintiffs’ assets from a Signature Bank account held in his name to Defendant (the “October 3 Transfer” together with the September 8 Transfer, the “Transfers”).

41. The Transfers to Defendant, which were funded by Debtors’ assets containing commingled customer assets, was initiated by FTX Insiders via transfers from Debtor accounts before being subsequently transferred to an account held by Defendant. The Transfers were neither investments nor was there any expected value or return to any of the Plaintiffs for the transfer of Plaintiffs' assets to Defendant. The Transfers from the Plaintiffs to Salame then to Defendant were part of a single integrated transaction whereby funds that were property of the Debtors were transferred to Defendant.

42. The Transfers to Defendant were part of an integrated plan by the FTX Insiders to siphon money from FTX Group creditors and enhance their own personal reputations at the expense of creditors.

43. The Transfers were also part of a carefully coordinated and deliberate scheme by Bankman-Fried to violate federal campaign finance law through the use of "straw men" donors.

B. The Transfers to Defendant Involved Multiple Badges of Fraud Evincing Actual Intent to Hinder, Delay, or Defraud Creditors.

44. As set forth above, multiple badges of fraud recognized by bankruptcy law and Del. Code Ann. tit. 6, § 1304(b) permeate the Transfers to Defendant, including that:

- i. Numerous material facts relating to the Transfers were concealed, including the source of the assets ultimately transferred to Defendant, the purpose of the Transfers, and the fraudulent scheme pursuant to which the Transfers were made;
- ii. Bankman-Fried and the FTX Insiders removed or concealed Plaintiffs' assets;
- iii. The value of the consideration received by Plaintiffs was not reasonably equivalent to the value of the assets transferred or the amount of the obligations incurred;
- iv. Plaintiffs were insolvent when, or became insolvent shortly after, the Transfers were made; and
- v. The Transfers occurred shortly before or shortly after Plaintiffs incurred substantial debts.
